

ABOUT US

SafePassage's new line of injection molded and extruded photoluminescent egress products we have taken a market filled with antiquated products to new levels of performance. We are simply capable of creating products well past the performance levels of others. Our mission at SafePassage is to provide the end user the highest level of safety performance at reasonable costs. Also, because of our production methods, we are capable of supplying large order requirements in a timely fashion.

If you are tired of products that don't look good, fail to meet your expectations, or just plain fail, please give us a call. We are so confident in our products that we know when we send you samples you'll be back to place orders.
